Headline:
Heavy rain and strong winds for much of the weekend.

Today:
A very wet and windy day. Widespread rain throughout, the heaviest and most persistent over southwest-facing high ground. A risk of gales in exposed locations. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain continues through the evening, remaining heavy over western facing hills, becoming lighter during the small hours. Western areas are first to see any lengthy dry spells. Remaining rather windy. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Sunday:
Strong winds with risk of coastal gales. A band of rain moves eastwards out of the country by mid-morning. A mix of sunny or bright spells and showers follow. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Remaining windy and unsettled throughout. Some longer spells of rain at times. Risk of gales in exposed areas. Nights turning milder but days remaining chilly.
